Brief Bio

Brandon Belcher is a distinguished member of the Advisory Board for Delaware State University's College of Agriculture, Science and Technology. A proud alumnus, Brandon graduated from Delaware State University in 2011 with a bachelor's degree in psychology. Following graduation, Brandon embarked on a remarkable career in the United States Army, serving for 11 years and achieving the rank of captain. As a logistics officer, Brandon demonstrated exceptional leadership and strategic planning skills, with duty locations spanning Fort Belvoir, Virginia, Germany, Kosovo, Romania, and Greece. This diverse experience provided Brandon with a global perspective and a deep understanding of complex logistical operations.

After an illustrious military career, Brandon transitioned to the civilian workforce through JPMorgan Chase's Military Pathways Program, which offers veterans unique opportunities to leverage their skills in the corporate sector. At JPMorgan Chase, Brandon began as a marketing strategy lead for Chase's credit card business, where Brandon played a pivotal role in driving innovative marketing initiatives. Currently, Brandon leads digital platform transformation and cloud migration initiatives for the Auto business, showcasing a commitment to technological advancement and operational efficiency. Brandon's expertise in digital transformation is further underscored by the attainment of the AWS Cloud Practitioner certification, with ongoing pursuits in solutions architect and AI certifications.

Beyond professional achievements, Brandon is deeply committed to family and personal interests. Married to Joy for 12 years, Brandon is a devoted parent to three daughters: Amyrie, 13; Aiyana, 10; and Alyvia, 7. Family life is enriched by shared experiences and cherished moments, whether exploring new cuisines, enjoying the beach, or engaging in fitness activities. Brandon's passion for working out and trying new cuisines reflects a zest for life and a dedication to personal well-being, which complements the professional drive and ambition.

As a member of the Advisory Board, Brandon brings a wealth of experience and a unique perspective to Delaware State University's College of Agriculture, Science and Technology. Brandon's journey from a psychology graduate to a military officer and corporate leader exemplifies resilience, adaptability, and a commitment to excellence. With a focus on innovation and strategic growth, Brandon is poised to contribute significantly to the college's mission, fostering an environment that encourages academic and professional success for future generations.
